President of Cuba Buys Great Show Mare.

Hazel Dawn, the show and saddle mare, has been bought for President Mario Menocal, of the Republic of Cuba, who will use her as his personal mount in his rides through the streets and the parks of Havana. Senor Menocal is an enthusiastic admirer of the Kentucky saddle horse and authorized his agent, Fred Wolf, of Havana, to secure him the best specimen of this class of horse obtainable. Mr. Wolf came to Lexington and, after looking over a number of attractive horses, decided on Hazel Dawn and purchased her from her owner, W. G. Shropshire, of Winchester, for $4,500. He also bought from Mr. Shropshire the walk-trot mare, Beechwood Belle.

An Unusual Funeral.

A picture of a funeral procession which followed the body of Vito Mondago, an Italian, killed at Johnson & Briggs' construction camp, was taken just as the unique cortege reached the cemetery gate, and this will be sent to the widow and two children in Italy by the dead man's countrymen and friends as a token of remembrance of the husband and father, who met death far from home while endeavoring to provide for their comfort.

The funeral was unlike any ever held in this city. The hearse was the only vehicle in the procession and 50 Italians, fellow workmen of Mondago's, marched behind the casket. Only four persons in the procession could speak any English. The devotion which the men showed their dead comrade was very touching. —Winchester Sun.

A prudent mother is always on the watch for symptoms of worms in her children. Paleless, lack of interest in play, and peevishness is the signal for WHITE'S CREAM VERMIFUGE. A few doses of this excellent remedy puts an end to the worms and the child soon acts naturally. Price 25 cents per bottle. Sold by Wines' Drug Store.

OLD HICKORY AND SEMINOLES

Modern Jacksonville Reverses His Memory At Reunion

Spirit of Great Man Militant in Confederate Reunion City—Why Jacksonville Was Named in His Honor.

Jacksonville, Fla.—Confederate soldiers, the world over, reverse the name of Andrew Jackson, and in view of the fact that their next reunion is to be held in the only city in the South that was named in honor of that great and brave man, his services in freeing Florida from the blight of Indian barbarism will be of interest.

Jacksonville was named for Gen. Andrew Jackson as a compliment and mark of appreciation for services he rendered to civilization in the Seminole War. There could have been no progress or civilization in Florida but for the work of Andrew Jackson. Conditions in this territory in 1818, nearly a hundred years ago, demanded the services of a brave and resolute man. Gen. Jackson was selected by the government as the one man above all others to head the movement against the Seminole Indians, who had been terrorizing the territory for several years and committing atrocities of the most brutal character.

In March, 1818, Gen. Jackson was ordered to the site of the Seminole War. He invaded East Florida, and in a campaign of less than six weeks crushed these Indians. It is related by historians that in one village, not far removed from Jacksonville, he found 300 scalps of men, women and children, many of them still fresh, hanging on a war pole. Gen. Jackson knew that the Spaniards were in sympathy with the Indians in their attacks on American settlers. After cleaning up a number of Indian villages he captured the Spanish post of St. Marks.

Gen. Bennett H. Young, Louisville, Ky., Commander in Chief United Confederate Veterans, Who Hold Their Reunion at Jacksonville in May.

For this act he was severely censured by his government. However, the naked fact is that "Old Hickory" was more courageous than the men who were conducting the affairs of state at Washington.

Early in May, 1818, Gen. Jackson closed his campaign against the Seminoles in East Florida. He had completely broken their power and run them out of the territory. They caused no more serious trouble.

During his campaign in East Florida Gen. Jackson obtained satisfactory evidence that Spanish officers at Pensacola were in sympathy with the Indians. He promptly decided to march against them and teach them a lesson.

The Spanish governor of West Florida, learning of Gen. Jackson's purpose, sent him a written protest against his invasion. This protest is now on file among the Jackson documents in charge of the Tennessee Historical Society at Nashville. The protest was delivered to Gen. Jackson near Pensacola on May 23, but it had no effect on that determined man. In reply he sent a peremptory demand for the immediate surrender of Pensacola and Barrancas. Jackson advanced immediately on Pensacola and possessed it. Two days later the Barrancas garrison capitulated, were received as prisoners of war and sent to Havana.

Having thus snatched both East and West Florida from the Indians and Spaniards, Gen. Jackson at once proceeded to establish a provisional government under the stars and stripes. Having accomplished this, he returned to Tennessee, then his home.

In 1822 a number of pioneers held a meeting here and decided to start the work of building a town. The village was then known as the Cow Ford, a name given to it by the Indians. After perfecting an organization, the incorporation unfurled the banner of Jacksonville in honor of Gen. Jackson, who had made it possible for white men to live here.

When the Confederate soldiers and their friends meet here for the 24th annual reunion Jacksonville will impress them with all the force of Andrew Jackson. It is now a modern progressive city of 35,000 population, one of the thriving business centers of the New South. Its varied attractions will delight all who attend the reunion, and no matter how large the crowd may be, Jacksonville will take care of all.

BELLES OF DIXIE VIE AT REUNION

Brilliant Fetes Planned For Jacksonville Meeting

May 6, 7 and 8 To Be Memorable Dates in Florida's Metropolis—Large Crowd Assured the Reunion City.

Jacksonville, Fla.—Southern social circles are again taking an interest in the great social, military and sentimental annual meeting that brings together a crowd of from 75,000 to 150,000 people to do honor to the ex-Confederate soldier—the reunion of the survivors of the Confederate armies.

The reunion is to be held this year at Jacksonville, Fla., May 6, 7, 8 inclusive. It is the first time that the ex-Confederates have selected Florida as the reunion state, and uncommon interest attaches to the meeting here and throughout the South. Owing to the comparatively early date of the reunion, the divisions, brigades and camps made their appointments of sponsors and maids early, and these ladies compose the social side of the reunion. They are known as the official ladies of the meeting, entertained as such, and courted by the entire social fabric of the South.

The Sons of Confederate Veterans, following in the footsteps of their fathers, maintain organizations in every Southern state, and hold their reunions on the same dates. They appoint sponsors and maids of honor. The two organizations, closely allied, therefore, send to each Confederate reunion several hundred official ladies, selected from the best families of the South, that stand high in the social scale in their communities.

Mapping out a social program, therefore, for the Confederate reunion is a task that demands the best of talent in the entertainment line. There must be dinners, receptions, balls, trips to points of interest around the reunion cities and anything else in the line of social entertainment the committee may devise. The crowning event of the week in society, however, is the annual ball for maids and sponsors. If the reunion is held in a city where a hall large enough to accommodate several hundred dancing couples at once can not be secured, a dancing pavilion is constructed for the occasion. This pavilion consists of a large canvas tent, well floored and lighted; it is also supplied with comfortable seats on the grandstand order, where several thousand spectators may witness the ball. If a reader has not seen one of these annual balls at a Confederate reunion he has but limited idea of its size and brilliancy. Nothing to equal it in splendor can be seen in the United States, unless it be the inauguration ball at the national capital, now fallen into social desuetude. If the inauguration ball is put out of the contest, the annual ball of the Confederate reunion, at which the maids and sponsors hold sway, is the greatest social function of the United States.

The social side of the Jacksonville reunion will be participated in by representatives of all Southern States, the border states and a few western commonwealths. There are sixteen state divisions of the United Confederate Veterans' Association, as follows: South Carolina, North Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, Louisiana, Tennessee, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia, Kentucky, Texas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Arkansas. Each state sends large delegations of young women to the reunion, selected with regard to their social standing at home. In addition to the state delegations, the commander-in-chief has his own official ladies, chosen from the South at large. There are three departments, known as the Army of Northern Virginia department, Army of Tennessee department and Trans-Mississippi department. Each department appoints maids and sponsors and sends them to all reunions. The scope of country covered by these many organizations has about half the population of the United States; hence, the interest in a Confederate reunion is always widespread. Society circles in all of this territory are interested in the Jacksonville reunion, and the event will bring here one of the largest crowds of young people ever assembled in the South. Florida appeals to the young, because of its flowers and its wonders—its poetry, its songs and its attractive history. Rivers and ocean, gulf and bays have interest all their own. The palm and the pine, live oak and holly, and a hundred other forest trees that abound throughout the state as nowhere else on the continent, invest Florida with an interest as wide as the nation. Greater interest attaches to the Jacksonville reunion than to any recent meeting of the Confederates, and preparations are being made to entertain a large crowd of people in May.

The population of Jacksonville is about 35,000. The assessed value of taxable property is $58,000,000. Twelve years ago it was but $13,000,000, showing an increase of more than 400 per cent for the period. The municipal tax levy is 11.5 mills, one of the lowest in the country.

Jacksonville's bank clearings for 1912 were $168,422,388. Aggregate bank deposits approximate $22,000,000. Number of banking institutions, 16.

A Risky Contract.

Judge Graham, in a Chicago court last week, decided against Charles Meyerhofer, the plaintiff, in a suit to recover the engagement ring from Helen Hoagland after she had cruelly given him the "shake." The judge ruled that "man gives an engagement ring at his own risk; if he loses the girl, he also loses the ring."

Food From Trees.

The pecan tree bids fair to rival the vine as an encourager of imaginative literature. The average prospectus of pecan plantations seems to be the joint product of a gas factory and a table of logarithms. In one breath the sucker is told of the enormous crops which this tree will yield, and in the next of the profits of selling that crop at 50 cents per pound.

One might as well be told of a new variety of wheat yielding 100 bushels per acre, and then figure returns on the basis of $6 per bushel. But the world-old relation between big crops and low prices does not trouble the pecan promoter.

In spite of fakers, the legitimate pecan industry is growing and deserves to grow; and one writer on that topic dropped a prophecy which has a chance of coming true. This is the prediction that some day humanity will get its chief food from trees.

It will take many centuries to fulfill that prophecy, but history is working that way. As population increases, food production must be raised in proportion; and trees will yield more food per acre than is possible for grain. Also, it would save much labor, capital and uncertainty to have a crop that need be planted only once or twice a century, instead of every spring or fall.

No nut crop is known that will take the place of wheat or rye. But the search for such a substitute has already begun, and with time enough, should succeed. More than one department of agriculture will be burbanked in the next few generations, and why not this? —Chicago Journal.

Do Not Let Fat Burn.

The unpopularity of fried food in many families is due entirely to the fact that the fat has been burned in cooking. Fat when heated too high a temperature splits up and may thus form substances which have an irritating effect on the throat and may cause digestive disturbances.

Fat in itself is a very valuable food, and if it is not scorched, should prove a healthful rather than an objectionable article of diet. A slightly burned taste and similar objectionable flavors can often be removed from fat by putting into it thick slices of raw potato and heating it gradually. When the fat ceases to bubble and the potatoes are brown, the fat should be strained off through a cloth placed in a wire strainer.
